Even before i animated, i always had a habit of drawing friends into comics.

In secondary school i would draw them all the time, if just to get a quick laugh or to insult another.

Around 2004 i started making less stick movies and more character based things, and by the end i made the first Eddsworld 'crew' animation, the Eddsworld Xmas Special 2004.

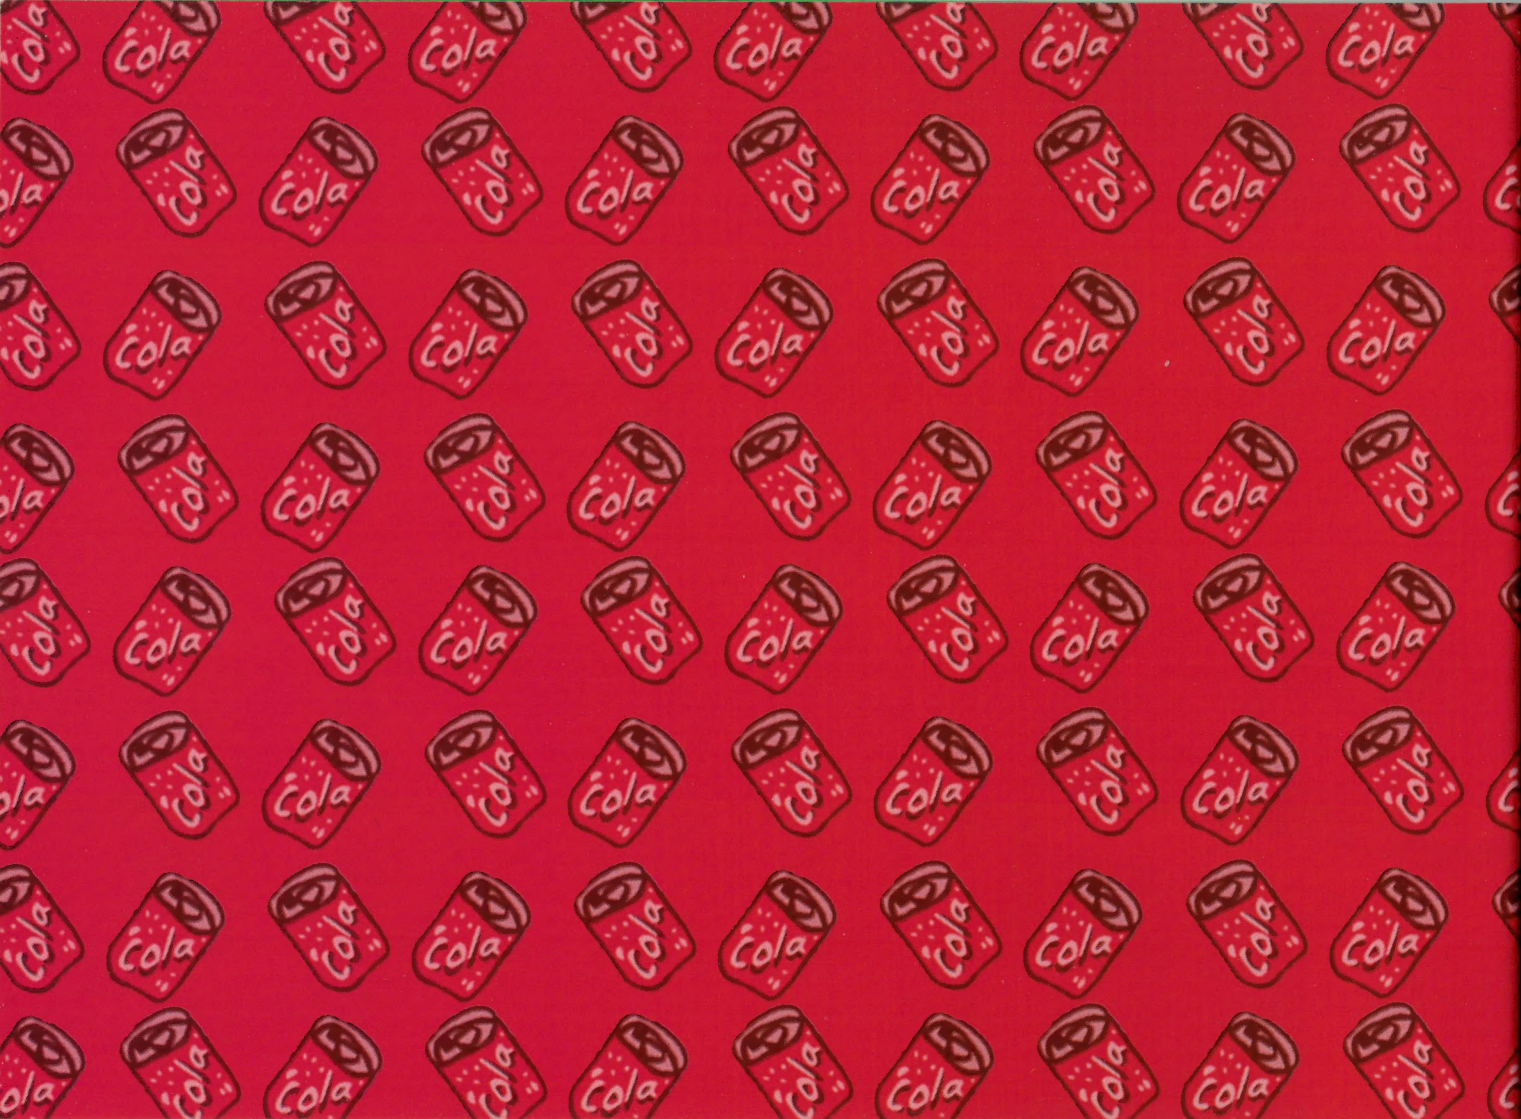

It wasn't until The Dudette Next Door that the Newgrounds audience took any notice and fans started appearing and things started snowballing from there, really...”

"I first met Matt at a Sports day event.
Me and my friend were sat next to him
having to watch the tedious sporting events,
and suddenly this ginger kid starts talking constantly to me and my friend....

He initially didn't want to be in my earlier stick animations
because he claimed i kept killing him off"
